&lt;p&gt;The Making Of&lt;/p&gt; &lt;p&gt;I ve always liked the idea of creating experiences for the web. Nowaday s, almost every mobile and desktop device has a web browser and visitors can exp erience your creation without the friction of downloading and installing a separ ate app. Prior to creating Vortelli s, I dabbled with tools like Three.js, Phase r and Construct, but I never actually completed a project. I kept falling into t he cycle of starting a project with excitement and motivation but as I d encount er problems, I d gradually lose interest and eventually quit.&lt;/p&gt; &lt;p&gt;In mid-2024, I promised myself that I was going to break that cycle by finishing and releasing a 3D multiplayer web game. I still wasn t proficient wit h any particular game engine and I spent many hours reading and watching YouTube videos trying to decide on the perfect engine. I eventually figured out that th ere was no such thing as a perfect engine and I really just needed to pick one, learn the basics and start building. I ended up choosing PlayCanvas because I wa s already pretty comfortable with JavaScript and I found its editor very simple to use.&lt;/p&gt;
&lt;p&gt;I spent the majority of my time figuring out how to get the multiplayer netcode working. At first, the prototype game didn t have any sort of goal or o bjective, it was just an open world where you could hang out with other players.
Maybe it was because I m a solo dev, but I started to feel that players would q uickly become bored with this experience. Some kind of minigame needed to be add ed to give players a sense of purpose. I went with a pizza cooking minigame beca use everyone loves pizza, right? I chose the name Vortelli s Pizza, because it sounds like the name of a somewhat believable pizza shop and I couldn t find an y real life businesses on Google using that name already.&lt;/p&gt;
